

Is there normality within each batch?

Normality seems to apply to most of the batches.

